Note. The first division of the Senior Class has been connected with the Academy a longer time, and has advanced further than the second.

PHILLIPS ACADEMY.

THE principal object of this Institution is to give instruction in the Latin and Greek Classics, and in such other studies as may be requisite for admission to College.

The instruction is designed to be such as to give the student a thorough knowledge of the grammar and idioms of the languages which he studies, and to accustom him to habits of close analysis.

Original composition in Latin or Greek is required each week.

TERMS.

There are three Academic terms during the year, viz. The first commencing four weeks after the second Wednesday of August. The second two weeks after the Wednesday before the annual Thanksgiving of Massachusetss. The third two weeks after the first Wednesday of April.

New classes are admitted twice a year, at the commencement of the Spring and Fall terms. Students however may enter at any time during the year, if they are prepared to join any existing class.

In addition to the regular classes, there will be a department for lads, in which English studies will be pursued in connection with the Latin and Greek.

TEXT BOOKS.

English. Willard's Ancient Geography ; Smith's Modern do. ; Adams's Arithmetic ; Day's Algebra ; Euclid.

Latin. Goodrich's Latin Lessons ; Andrews and Stoddard's Latin Grammar ; Andrews' Latin Reader ; Cornelius Nepos ; Cicero's Orations ; Cicero De Senectute et Amicitia ; Virgil ; Sallust ; Leverett's Latin Lexicon.

Greek. Goodrich's Greek Lessons ; Fisk's Greek Grammar ; Buttmann's do. ; Xenophon's Anabasis ; Greek Testament ; Homer's Iliad ; Donnegan or Grove's Greek Lexicon.

EXPENSES.

A fee of $5,00 is required of each student upon his entrance into the Academy.

Tuition for each term is $6,00, which is remitted to indigent students.

The Expense of board in private families varies from $2,00 to $3,00.

The board in Commons is charged at its net expense, from $1,00 to $1,50 per week, varying with the price of provisions.

There are connected with the Commons seven buildings, with commodious rooms, which will accommodate upwards of eighty students, without expense.

Students who wish to board in Commons, usually bring from home a bed, etc.

Third Year.—First Term—Virgil continued, Anabasis continued, Exercises in comparing the Latin with the Greek, Algebra commenced.—Second Term—Virgil completed, Homer's Iliad—two books, Translations into Latin and Greek verse, Algebra completed, Greek Testament, Ancient Geography.—Third Term—Sallust, Greek Testament completed, Translations from Latin into Greek and from Greek into Latin, Studies reviewed. Declamations every week during the course.

The instruction in this institution is confined to the Latin and Greek classics, and such other studies as are requisite to prepare young men for college. Efforts have been made for some years past to render the course of study as thorough as possible. For this purpose, the number of classes has been greatly diminished. Each teacher devotes his whole time to two classes, giving twice the usual amount of time to each recitation. This has been found of very great service to the student. Considering therefore the single object had in view and the time afforded each teacher to enter into a full explanation of the difficulties and peculiarities of every lesson, it is believed that few institutions present equal advantages to young men wishing to prepare for college.

The course of study, as above marked out, embraces three years; and it is believed that this thorough course is best fitted to prepare the student for the most successful progress in his college studies.

While the regular course is three years, yet students are permitted to pursue their studies here, so long as their time and circumstances will allow. And it is fully believed, if a student can spend but two years, it is decidedly better to pursue such a course as is here marked out, so far as that time will allow, than to pass superficially over a more extended course.

Terms, etc.

There are three Academic terms during the year, viz. The first commencing four weeks after the second Wednesday of August. The second three weeks after the Wednesday before the annual Thanksgiving of Massachusetts. The third three weeks after the first Wednesday of April.

New classes are admitted twice a year, at the commencement of the Spring and Fall terms. Students, however, may enter at any time during the year, if they are prepared to join any existing class.

The members of the Academy are required to attend church regularly on the Sabbath, and also a biblical exercise every Sabbath morning in the Academy.

A punctual attendance at every exercise is required of each student; and as the absence from a single recitation interferes with the student's progress, it is earnestly requested that parents would not consent that their sons should return home during term time.

At the close of every term a report of the absences of each student will be made out and forwarded to their parents.

Expenses.

A fee of $5,00 is required of each student upon his entrance into the Academy.

Tuition for each term is $6,00, which is remitted to indigent students.

The Expense of board in private families varies from $2,00 to $3,00.

The board in Commons is charged at its net expense, from $1,00 to $1,25 per week, varying with the price of provisions. The last term it was $1,02 per week.

There are connected with the Commons seven buildings, with commodious rooms, which will accommodate upwards of eighty students, without expense.

Students who wish to board in Commons, usually bring from home a bed and bedding. Other articles necessary to furnish their rooms can be obtained here at a small expense.

Declamations every week during the course.

The instruction in this institution is confined to the Latin and Greek classics, and such other studies as are requisite to prepare young men for college. Efforts have been made for some years past to render the course of study as thorough as possible. For this purpose, the number of classes has been greatly diminished. Each teacher devotes his whole time to two classes, giving twice the usual amount of time to each recitation. This has been found of very great service to the student. Considering therefore the single object had in view and the time afforded each teacher to enter into a full explanation of the difficulties and peculiarities of every lesson, it is believed that few institutions present equal advantages to young men wishing to prepare for college.

The course of study, as above marked out, embraces three years; and it is believed that this thorough course is best fitted to prepare the student for the most successful progress in his college studies.

While the regular course is three years, yet students are permitted to pursue their studies here so long as their time and circumstances will allow. And it is fully believed, if a student can spend but two years, it is decidedly better to pursue such a course as is here marked out, so far as that time will allow, than to pass superficially over a more extended course.

Terms, etc.

There are three Academic terms during the year, viz. The first commencing four weeks after the second Wednesday of August. The second three weeks after the Wednesday before the annual Thanksgiving of Massachusetts. The third three weeks after the first Wednesday of April.

New classes are admitted twice a year, at the commencement of the Spring and Fall terms. Students, however, may enter at any time during the year, if they are prepared to join an existing class.

The members of the Academy are required to attend church regularly on the Sabbath, and also a biblical exercise every Sabbath morning in the Academy.

A punctual attendance at every exercise is required of each student; and as the absence from a single recitation interferes with the student's progress, it is earnestly requested that parents would not consent that their sons should return home during term time.

At the close of every term a report of the absences of each student will be made out and forwarded to their parents when required.

Expenses.

A fee of $5,00 is required of each student upon his entrance into the Academy.

Tuition for each term is $6,00, which is remitted to indigent students. Students who wish to have their tuition remitted, are required to furnish to the Treasurer a certificate, signed by at least two responsible persons, that their circumstances are such as to render the aid necessary, and that they sustain a good moral character.

Tuition is to be paid at the commencement of, or during each term, with the exception of the first term, when the tuition of the first term may be paid at the commencement of the second.

The expense of board in private families varies from $2,00 to $3,00.

The board in Commons is charged at its net expense, and varies with the price of provisions. The last term it was 94 cts. per week.

Students who board in Commons, are required to pay their bills for board and rent, before, or at the close of each term.

There are connected with the Commons seven buildings, with commodious rooms, which will accommodate upwards of eighty students. Each student, in Commons, is charged one dollar a term for the use of his room.

Students who wish to board in Commons, usually bring from home a bed and bedding. Other articles necessary to furnish their rooms can be obtained here at a small expense.

Declamations every week during the course.

The instruction in this Department is confined to the Latin and Greek Classics, and such other studies as are requisite to prepare young men for college. Efforts have been made for several years past to render the course of study as thorough as possible. For this purpose, the number of classes has been greatly diminished. Each teacher devotes his whole time to two classes, giving twice the usual amount of time to each recitation. This has been found of very great service to the student. Considering therefore the single object had in view and the time afforded each teacher to enter into a full explanation of the difficulties and peculiarities of every lesson, it is believed that few institutions present equal advantages to young men wishing to prepare for college.

The course of study, as above marked out, embraces three years; and it is believed that this thorough course is best fitted to prepare the student for the most successful progress in his college studies.

While the regular course is three years, yet students are permitted to pursue their studies here as long as their time and circumstances will allow. And it is fully believed, if a student can spend but two years, it is decidedly better to pursue such a course as is here marked out, so far as that time will allow, than to pass superficially over a more extended course.

New classes are admitted to this Department twice a year, at the commencement of the Spring and Fall terms. Students, however, may enter at any time during the year, if they are prepared to join an existing class.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.

The course of instruction in this Department is designed to impart a thorough knowledge of the common and higher branches of an English education.

Courses of lectures, experimental and theoretical, are given on Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, Mineralogy and Geology.

The higher classes have exercises in analyzing Milton, Young, and other poets, in connection with a course of familiar lectures on the principles of English Grammar. In these and other exercises of the English Department, special attention is given to those who are desirous of qualifying themselves to become teachers.

The Institution is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating very fully most of the important principles in Chemistry, Natural Philosophy and Astronomy. It has also an extensive cabinet of minerals, and a complete and valuable set of instruments for Practical Surveying and Civil Engineering.

The library contains about eight hundred volumes, and is open to all the members of this department.

The Preparatory Department occupies an adjacent building, and is taught by a separate instructor under the general supervision of the Principal. Lads from seven to fourteen years of age are here thoroughly instructed in the elementary branches of study, preparatory to their admission into the higher classes.

Course of Study.

Common Branches. Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography, History of the United States and General History, Book-Keeping by Single Entry, Reading, Orthography, Writing, etc.

Higher Branches. Algebra, Davies's Legendre, Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Practical Surveying, Mensuration, Book Keeping by Double Entry, Evidences of Christianity, Paley's Natural Theology, Smellie's Philosophy of Natural History, Gray's Chemistry, Mineralogy and Geology, Gray's Scientific and Practical Agriculture, Lincoln's Botany, Olmsted's Natural Philosophy, Olmsted's Astronomy, Burritt's Geography of the Heavens, Rhetoric, Logic, English Poets, Upham's Mental Philosophy, abridged, and Wayland's Moral Science.

Terms, etc.

There are three Academic terms during the year, viz. The first commencing four weeks after the first Wednesday of August. The second three weeks after the Wednesday before the annual Thanksgiving of Massachusetts. The third three weeks after the last Wednesday of March.

The members of the Academy are required to attend church regularly on the Sabbath, and also a biblical exercise every Sabbath morning in the Academy.

A punctual attendance at every exercise is required of each student; and as the absence from a single recitation interferes with the student's progress, it is earnestly requested that parents would not consent that their sons should return home during term time.

At the close of every term a report of the absences of each student will be made out and forwarded to their parents, when required.

Expenses.

A fee of $5,00 is required of each student upon his entrance into the Classical Department.

Tuition for each term is $6,00, which is remitted to indigent students. Students who wish to have their tuition remitted, are required to furnish to the Treasurer a certificate, signed by at least two responsible persons, that their circumstances are such as to render the aid necessary, and that they sustain a good moral character.

Tuition in the English Department is at the rate of 40 cents per week for the common branches, and 50 cents for the higher. No deduction will be made for occasional absence. Tuition is not remitted, in any case, in this Department.

Tuition in the Preparatory Department is 33 cents per week.

Tuition is to be paid at the commencement of, or during each term, with the exception of the first term in the Classical Department, when the tuition of the first term may be paid at the commencement of the second.

The expense of board in private families varies from $2,00 to $3,00.

The board in Commons is charged at its net expense, and varies with the price of provisions. The last term it was 76 cents per week.

Students who board in Commons, are required to pay their bills for board and rent, before, or at the close of each term.

There are connected with the Commons 14 buildings, with commodious rooms, which will accommodate upwards of 150 students. Each student, in Commons, is charged one dollar a term for the use of his room.

The rooms for the use of the English students are conveniently furnished with beds, chairs, tables, etc.

Those for the Classical students are furnished with a bedstead, under bed and table. A bed and bedding are usually brought from home. Other articles necessary to furnish a room can be obtained here, at small expense.

as above, studies reviewed. Declamations every week during the course.

The instruction in this Department is confined to the Latin and Greek Classics, and such other studies as are requisite to prepare young men for college. Efforts have been made for several years past to render the course of study as thorough as possible. For this purpose, the number of classes has been greatly diminished. Each teacher devotes his whole time to two classes, giving twice the usual amount of time to each recitation. This has been found of very great service to the student. Considering therefore the single object had in view, and the time afforded each teacher to enter into a full explanation of the difficulties and peculiarities of every lesson, it is believed that few institutions present equal advantages to young men wishing to prepare for college.

The course of study, as above marked out, embraces three years; and it is believed that this thorough course is best fitted to prepare the student for the most successful progress in his college studies.

While the regular course is three years, yet students are permitted to pursue their studies here as long as their time and circumstances will allow. And it is fully believed, if a student can spend but two years, it is decidedly better to pursue such a course as is here marked out, so far as that time will allow, than to pass superficially over a more extended course.

New classes are admitted to this Department twice a year, at the commencement of the Spring and Fall terms. Students, however, may enter at any time during the year, if they are prepared to join an existing class.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.

The course of instruction in this Department is designed to impart a thorough knowledge of the common and higher branches of an English education.

Regular courses of lectures are given on Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and the Art of Teaching; besides occasional lectures on Astronomy, Geology, and various other subjects, as the wants of particular classes require.

The higher classes have exercises in analyzing Milton, Young, and other poets, in connection with a course of familiar lectures on the principles of English Grammar. In these and other exercises of the English Department, special attention is given to those who are desirous of qualifying themselves to become teachers.

The Institution is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating very fully most of the important principles in Chemistry, Natural Philosophy and Astronomy. It has also an extensive cabinet of minerals, and a complete and valuable set of instruments for Practical Surveying and Civil Engineering.

The library contains about eight hundred volumes, and is open to all the members of this department.

The Preparatory Department occupies an adjacent building, and is taught by a separate instructor under the general supervision of the Principal. Lads from seven to fourteen years of age are here thoroughly instructed in the elementary branches of study, preparatory to their admission into the higher classes.

Course of Study.

Common Branches. Arithmetic (Greenleaf's), English Grammar (Wells's), Geography, History of the United States and General History, Book-Keeping by Single Entry, Reading, Orthography, Writing, etc.

Higher Branches. Algebra (Day's), Legendre (Davies's), Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Practical Surveying, Mensuration, Book-Keeping by Double Entry, Evidences of Christianity, Paley's Natural Theology, Smellie's Philosophy of Natural History, Chemistry (Gray's), Mineralogy and Geology, Lincoln's Botany, Olmsted's Natural Philosophy, Olmsted's Astronomy, Burritt's Geography of the Heavens, Rhetoric, Logic, English Poets, Upham's Mental Philosophy, abridged, and Wayland's Moral Science.

Terms, etc.

There are three Academic terms during the year, viz. The first commencing four weeks after the first Wednesday of August. The second three weeks after the Wednesday before the annual Thanksgiving of Massachusetts. The third three weeks after the last Wednesday of March.

The members of the Academy are required to attend church regularly on the Sabbath, and also a Biblical exercise every Sabbath morning in the Academy.

A punctual attendance at every exercise is required of each student; and as the absence from a single recitation interferes with the student's progress, it is earnestly requested that parents would not consent that their sons should return home during term time.

In ordinary cases, students will not be admitted to the Academy, if they intend leaving before the close of the term.

At the close of every term a report of the absences of each student will be made out and forwarded to their parents, when required.

Expenses.

A fee of $5,00 is required of each student upon his entrance into the Classical Department.

Tuition for each term is $6,00, which is remitted to indigent students. Students who wish to have their tuition remitted, are required to furnish to the Treasurer a certificate, signed by at least two responsible persons, that their circumstances are such as to render the aid necessary, and that they sustain a good moral character.

Tuition in the English Department is at the rate of 40 cents per week for the common branches, and 50 cents for the higher. No deduction will be made for occasional absence. Tuition is not remitted, in any case, in this Department.

Tuition in the Preparatory Department is 33 cents per week.

Tuition is to be paid at the commencement of, or during each term, with the exception of the first term in the Classical Department, when the tuition of the first term may be paid at the commencement of the second.

The expense of board in private families varies from $2,00 to $3,00.

The board in Commons is charged at its net expense, and varies with the price of provisions. It is usually less than $1,00 per week.

Students who board in Commons, are required to pay their bills for board and rent, before, or at the close of each term.

There are connected with the Commons thirteen buildings, with commodious rooms, which will accommodate upwards of 150 students. Each student, in Commons, is charged one dollar a term for the use of his room.

The rooms for the use of the English students are conveniently furnished with beds, chairs, tables, etc. The bedding is provided by the student.

as above, studies reviewed. Declamations every week during the course.

The instruction in this Department is confined to the Latin and Greek Classics, and such other studies as are requisite to prepare young men for college. Each teacher devotes his whole time to two classes, giving twice the usual amount of time to each recitation. This has been found of very great service to the student. Considering therefore the single object had in view, and the time afforded each teacher to enter into a full explanation of the difficulties and peculiarities of every lesson, it is believed that few institutions present equal advantages to young men wishing to prepare for college.

The course of study, as above marked out, embraces three years; and it is believed that this thorough course is best fitted to prepare the student for the most successful progress in his college studies.

While the regular course is three years, yet students are permitted to pursue their studies here as long as their time and circumstances will allow. And it is fully believed, if a student can spend but two years, it is decidedly better to pursue such a course as is here marked out, so far as that time will allow, than to pass superficially over a more extended course.

New classes are admitted to this Department twice a year,—at the commencement of the Spring and Fall terms. Students, however, may enter at any time during the year, if they are prepared to join an existing class.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.

The course of instruction in this Department is designed to impart a thorough knowledge of the common and higher branches of an English education.

Regular courses of lectures are given on Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and the Art of Teaching; besides occasional lectures on Astronomy, Geology, and various other subjects, as the wants of particular classes require.

The higher classes have exercises in analyzing Milton, Young, and other poets, in connection with a course of familiar lectures on the principles of English Grammar. In these and other exercises of the English Department, special attention is given to those who are desirous of qualifying themselves to become teachers.

The Institution is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating very fully most of the important principles in Chemistry, Natural Philosophy and Astronomy. It has also an extensive cabinet of minerals, and a complete and valuable set of instruments for Practical Surveying and Civil Engineering.

The library contains about eight hundred volumes, and is open to all the members of this department.

The Preparatory Department occupies an adjacent building, and is taught by a separate instructer under the general supervision of the Principal. Lads from seven to fourteen years of age are here thoroughly instructed in the elementary branches of study, preparatory to their admission into the higher classes.

Course of Study.

Common Branches. Arithmetic (Greenleaf's), English Grammar (Wells's), Geography, History of the United States and General History, Book-Keeping by Single Entry, Reading, Orthography, Writing, etc.

Higher Branches. Algebra (Day's), Legendre (Davies's) Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Practical Surveying, Mensuration, Book-Keeping by Double Entry, Evidences of Christianity, Paley's Natural Theology, Smellie's Philosophy of Natural History, Chemistry (Gray's), Mineralogy and Geology, Lincoln's Botany, Olmsted's Natural Philosophy, Olmsted's Astronomy, Kendall's Uranography, Rhetoric, Logic, English Poets, Upham's Mental Philosophy (abridged) and Wayland's Moral Science.

Terms, etc.

There are three Academic terms during the year, viz. The first commencing four weeks after the first Wednesday of August. The second three weeks after the Wednesday before the annual Thanksgiving of Massachusetts. The third three weeks after the last Wednesday of March.

The members of the Academy are required to attend church regularly on the Sabbath, and also a Biblical exercise every Sabbath morning in the Academy.

A punctual attendance at every exercise is required of each student; and as the absence from a single recitation interferes with the student's progress, it is earnestly requested that parents would not consent that their sons should return home during term time.

In ordinary cases, students will not be admitted to the Academy, if they intend leaving before the close of the term.

At the close of every term a report of the absences of each student will be made out and forwarded to their parents, when required.

Expenses.

A fee of $5,00 is required of each student upon his entrance into the Classical Department.

Tuition for each term is $6,00, which is remitted to indigent students. Students who wish to have their tuition remitted, are required to furnish to the Treasurer a certificate, signed by at least two responsible persons, that their circumstances are such as to render the aid necessary, and that they sustain a good moral character.

Tuition in the English Department is at the rate of 40 cents per week for the common branches, and 50 cents for the higher. No deduction will be made for occasional absence. Tuition is not remitted, in any case, in this Department.

Tuition in the Preparatory Department is 33 cents per week.

Tuition is to be paid at the commencement of, or during each term, with the exception of the first term in the Classical Department, when the tuition of the first term may be paid at the commencement of the second.

The expense of board in private families varies from $2,00 to $3,00.

The board in Commons is charged at its net expense, and varies with the price of provisions. It is usually less than $1,00 per week.

Students who board in Commons, are required to pay their bills for board and rent, before, or at the close of each term.

There are connected with the Commons thirteen buildings, with commodious rooms, which will accommodate upwards of 150 students. Each student, in Commons, is charged one dollar a term for the use of his room.

The rooms for the use of the English students are conveniently furnished with beds, chairs, tables, etc. The bedding is provided by the student.

Those for the Classical students are furnished with a bedstead, under-bed and table. A bed and bedding are usually brought from home. Other articles necessary to furnish a room can be obtained here, at small expense.

The instruction in this Department is confined to the Latin and Greek Classics, and such other studies as are requisite to prepare young men for college. Each teacher devotes his whole time to two classes, giving twice the usual amount of time to each recitation. This has been found of very great service to the student. Considering therefore the single object had in view, and the time afforded each teacher to enter into a full explanation of the difficulties and peculiarities of every lesson, it is believed that few institutions present equal advantages to young men wishing to prepare for college.

The course of study as marked out, embraces three years; and it is believed that this thorough course is best fitted to prepare the student for the most successful progress in his college studies.

While the regular course is three years, yet students are permitted to pursue their studies here as long as their time and circumstances will allow. And it is fully believed, if a student can spend but two years, it is decidedly better to pursue such a course as is here marked out, so far as that time will allow, than to pass superficially over a more extended course.

New classes are admitted to this Department twice a year,—at the commencement of the Spring and Fall terms. Students, however, may enter at any time during the year, if they are prepared to join an existing class.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.

The course of instruction in this Department is designed to impart a thorough knowledge of the common and higher branches of an English education.

Regular courses of lectures are given on Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and the Art of Teaching; besides occasional lectures on Astronomy, Geology, and various other subjects, as the wants of particular classes require.

The higher classes have exercises in analyzing Milton, Young, and other poets, in connection with a course of familiar lectures on the principles of English Grammar. In these and other exercises of the English Department, special attention is given to those who are desirous of qualifying themselves to become teachers.

The Institution is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating very fully most of the important principles in Chemistry, Natural Philosophy and Astronomy. It has also an extensive cabinet of minerals, and a complete and valuable set of instruments for Practical Surveying and Civil Engineering. Chemistry, Botany, and Surveying, are studied during the Spring and Summer term.

The library contains about eight hundred volumes, and is open to all the members of this department.

The Preparatory Department occupies an adjacent building, and is taught by a separate instructor under the general supervision of the Principal. Lads from seven to fourteen years of age are here thoroughly instructed in the elementary branches of study, preparatory to their admission into the higher classes.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Common Branches.—Greenleaf's Arithmetic, Wells's Grammar, Geography, History of the United States, General History, Northend's Book-Keeping, Reading, Orthography, Writing, etc.

Higher Branches.—Sherwin's and Day's Algebra, Davies's Legendre, Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Practical Surveying, Mensuration, Book-Keeping by Double Entry, Evidences of Christianity, Paley's Natural Theology, Smellie's Philosophy of Natural History, Cutter's Anatomy and Physiology, Gray's Chemistry, Mineralogy and Geology, Lincoln's Botany, Olmsted's Natural Philosophy, Olmsted's Astronomy, Kendall's Uranography, Boyd's Rhetoric, Logic, English Poets, Upham's Mental Philosophy, Wayland's Moral Science.

TERMS, ETC.

There are three Academic terms during the year, viz. The first commencing four weeks after the first Wednesday of August. The second, three weeks after the Wednesday before the annual Thanksgiving of Massachusetts. The third, three weeks after the last Wednesday of March.

Students who wish to enter the Academy are required to furnish testimonials that they sustain a good moral character.

The members of the Academy are required to attend church regularly on the Sabbath, and also a Biblical exercise every Sabbath morning in the Academy.

A punctual attendance at every exercise is required of each student; and as the absence from a single recitation interferes with the student's progress, it is earnestly requested that parents would not consent that their sons should return home during term time.

In ordinary cases, students will not be admitted to the Academy, if they intend leaving before the close of the term.

At the close of every term, a report of the absences of each student will be made out and forwarded to their parents, when requested.

EXPENSES.

A fee of $5,00 is required of each student upon his entrance into the Classical Department.

Tuition for each term is $6,00, which is remitted to indigent students. Students who wish to have their tuition remitted, are required to furnish to the Treasurer a certificate, signed by at least two responsible persons, that their circumstances are such as to render the aid necessary, and that they sustain a good moral character.

Tuition in the English Department is at the rate of 40 cents per week for the common branches, and 50 cents for the higher. In this Department, no entrance fee is required, and tuition is not remitted. No deduction will be made for occasional absence.

Tuition in the Preparatory Department is 33 cents per week.

Tuition is to be paid at the commencement of, or during each term, with the exception of the first term in the Classical Department, when the tuition of the first term may be paid at the commencement of the second.

The expense of board in private families varies from $2,00 to $3,00 per week.

The board in Commons is charged at its net expense, and varies with the price of provisions. It is usually not more than $1,25 per week;—the present term it has been $1,09.

Students who board in Commons, are required to pay their bills for board and rent, before, or at the close of each term.

There are connected with the Commons thirteen buildings, with commodious rooms, which will accommodate upwards of 150 students. Each student, in Commons, is charged one dollar a term for the use of his room.

The rooms for the use of the English students are furnished with beds, chairs, tables, etc. Each student provides his own bedding.

Those for the Classical students are furnished with a bedstead, under-bed and table. A bed and bedding are usually brought from home. Other articles necessary to furnish a room can be obtained here, at small expense.

Declamations and Compositions during the whole course.

The instruction in this Department is confined to the Latin and Greek Classics, and such other studies as are requisite to prepare young men for college. Each teacher devotes his whole time to two classes, giving twice the usual amount of time to each recitation. This has been found of very great service to the student. Considering therefore the single object had in view, and the time afforded each teacher to enter into a full explanation of the difficulties and peculiarities of every lesson, it is believed that few institutions present equal advantages to young men wishing to prepare for college.

The course of study as marked out, embraces three years; and it is believed that this thorough course is best fitted to prepare the student for the most successful progress in his college studies.

While the regular course is three years, yet students are permitted to pursue their studies here as long as their time and circumstances will allow. And it is fully believed, if a student can spend but two years, it is decidedly better to pursue such a course as is here marked out, so far as that time will allow, than to pass superficially over a more extended course.

New classes are admitted to this department twice a year,—at the commencement of the Spring and Fall terms. Students, however, may enter at any time during the year, if they are prepared to join an existing class.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.

The course of instruction in this Department is designed to impart a thorough knowledge of the common and higher branches of an English education.

Regular courses of lectures are given on Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and the art of teaching; besides occasional lectures on Astronomy, Geology, and various other subjects, as the wants of particular classes require.

The higher classes have exercises in analyzing Milton, Young, and other poets, in connection with a course of familiar lectures on the principles of English Grammar. In these and other exercises of the English Department, special attention is given to those who are desirous of qualifying themselves to become teachers.

The Institution is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating very fully most of the important principles in Chemistry, Natural Philosophy and Astronomy. It has also an extensive cabinet of minerals, and a complete and valuable set of instruments for Practical Surveying and Civil Engineering. Chemistry, Botany, and Surveying are studied during the Spring and Summer term.

The library contains about eight hundred volumes, and is open to all the members of this department.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Common Branches.—Greenleaf's Arithmetic, Wells's Grammar, Morse's Geography, History of the United States, General History, Northend's Book-Keeping, Reading, Orthography, Writing. etc.

Higher Branches.—Sherwin's and Day's Algebra, Davies's Legendre, Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Practical Surveying, Mensuration, Book-Keeping by Double Entry, Evidences of Christianity, Paley's Natural Theology, Shurtleff's Governmental Instructor, Smellie's Philosophy of Natural History, Cutter's Anatomy and Physiology, Gray's Chemistry, Mineralogy and Geology, Lincoln's Botany, Olmsted's Natural Philosophy, Olmsted's Astronomy, Kendall's Uranography, Rhetoric, Logic, English Poets, Upham's Mental Philosophy, Wayland's Moral Science.

TERMS, ETC.

There are three Academic terms during the year, viz. The first commencing four weeks after the first Wednesday of August. The second, three weeks after the Wednesday before the annual Thanksgiving of Massachusetts. The third, three weeks after the last Wednesday of March.

Students who wish to enter the Academy are required to furnish testimonials that they sustain a good moral character.

The members of the Academy are required to attend church regularly on the Sabbath at the chapel of the Theological Seminary, and also a Biblical exercise every Sabbath morning in the Academy.

A punctual attendance at every exercise is required of each student; and as the absence from a single recitation interferes with the student's progress, it is earnestly requested that parents would not consent that their sons should return home during term time.

In ordinary cases, students will not be admitted to the Academy, if they intend leaving before the close of the term.

At the close of every term, a report of the absences of each student will be made out and forwarded to his parents, when requested.

EXPENSES.

A fee of $5,00 is required of each student upon his entrance into the Classical department.

Tuition for each term in the Classical Department is $6,00, which is remitted to indigent students who complete the full course preparatory for college. Students who wish to have their tuition remitted, are required to furnish to the Treasurer a certificate, signed by at least two responsible persons, that their circumstances are such as to render the aid necessary, and that they sustain a good moral character.

Tuition in the English Department is at the rate of 40 cents per week for the common branches, and 50 cents for the higher. In this Department, no entrance fee is required, and tuition is not remitted. No deduction will be made for occasional absence.

Tuition in both Departments is to be paid at the commencement of each term.

The expense of board in private families varies from $2,00 to $3,00 per week.

The board in Commons is charged at its net expense, and varies with the price of provisions. It is usually not more than $1,25 per week.

Students who board in Commons, are required to pay their bills for board and rent, before, or at the close of each term.

There are connected with the Commons thirteen buildings, with commodious rooms, which will accommodate upwards of 150 students. Each student, in Commons, is charged one dollar a term for the use of his room.

The rooms for the use of the English students are furnished with beds, chairs, tables, etc. Each student provides his own bedding.

Those for the Classical students are furnished with a bedstead, under-bed and table. A bed and bedding are usually brought from home. Other articles necessary to furnish a room can be obtained here, at small expense.

Declamations and Compositions during the whole course.

The instruction in this Department is confined to the Latin and Greek Classics, and such other studies as are requisite to prepare young men for college. Each teacher devotes his whole time to two classes, giving twice the usual amount of time to each recitation. This has been found of very great service to the student. Considering therefore the single object had in view, and the time afforded each teacher to enter into a full explanation of the difficulties and peculiarities of every lesson, it is believed that few institutions present equal advantages to young men wishing to prepare for college.

The course of study as marked out, embraces three years; and it is believed that this thorough course is best fitted to prepare the student for the most successful progress in his college studies.

While the regular course is three years, yet students are permitted to pursue their studies here as long as their time and circumstances will allow. And it is fully believed, if a student can spend but two years, it is decidedly better to pursue such a course as is here marked out, so far as that time will allow, than to pass superficially over a more extended course.

New classes are admitted to this department twice a year,—at the commencement of the Spring and Fall terms. Students, however, may enter at any time during the year, if they are prepared to join an existing class.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.

The course of instruction in this Department is designed to impart a thorough knowledge of the common and higher branches of an English education.

Regular courses of lectures are given on Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and the art of teaching; besides occasional lectures on Astronomy, Geology, and various other subjects, as the wants of particular classes require.

The higher classes have exercises in analyzing Milton, Young, and other poets, in connection with a course of familiar lectures on the principles of English Grammar. In these and other exercises of the English Department, special attention is given to those who are desirous of qualifying themselves to become teachers.

The Institution is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating very fully most of the important principles in Chemistry, Natural Philosophy and Astronomy. It has also an extensive cabinet of minerals, and a complete and valuable set of instruments for Practical Surveying and Civil Engineering. Chemistry, Botany, and Surveying are studied during the Spring and Summer term.

The library contains about eight hundred volumes, and is open to all the members of this department.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Common Branches. — Greenleaf's Arithmetic, Wells's Grammar, Morse's Geography, History of the United States, General History, Northend's Book-Keeping, Reading, Orthography, Writing, etc.

Higher Branches. — Sherwin's and Day's Algebra, Davies's Legendre, Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Practical Surveying, Mensuration, Book-Keeping by Double Entry (Hitchcock's), Evidences of Christianity, Paley's Natural Theology, Shurtleff's Governmental Instructor, Smellie's Philosophy of Natural History, Cut-ter's Anatomy and Physiology, Gray's Chemistry, Mineralogy and Geology, Lincoln's Botany, Olmsted's Natural Philosophy, Olmsted's Astronomy, Kendall's Uranography, Rhetoric, Logic, English Poets, Upham's Mental Philosophy, Wayland's Moral Science.

Instruction in Sacred Music is given to all members of the school, who wish it, without additional charge.

TERMS, ETC.

There are three Academic terms during the year, viz. The first commencing four weeks after the first Wednesday of August. The second, three weeks after the Wednesday before the annual Thanksgiving of Massachusetts. The third, three weeks after the last Wednesday of March.

Students who wish to enter the Academy are required to furnish testimonials that they sustain a good moral character.

The members of the Academy are required to attend church regularly on the Sabbath at the chapel of the Theological Seminary, and also a Biblical exercise every Sabbath morning in the Academy.

A punctual attendance at every exercise is required of each student; and as the absence from a single recitation interferes with the student's progress, it is earnestly requested that parents would not consent that their sons should return home during term time.

In ordinary cases, students will not be admitted to the Academy, if they intend leaving before the close of the term.

At the close of every term, a report of the absences of each student will be made out and forwarded to his parents, when requested.

EXPENSES.

A fee of $5,00 is required of each student upon his entrance into the Classical Department.

Tuition for each term in the Classical Department is $6,00, which is remitted to indigent students who complete the full course preparatory for college. Students who wish to have their tuition remitted, are required to furnish to the Treasurer a certificate, signed by at least two responsible persons, that their circumstances are such as to render the aid necessary, and that they sustain a good moral character.

Tuition in the English Department is at the rate of 40 cents per week for the common branches, and 50 cents for the higher. In this Department, no entrance fee is required, and tuition is not remitted. No deduction will be made for occasional absence.

Tuition in both Departments is to be paid at the commencement of each term.

The expense of board in private families varies from $2,50 to $3,00 per week.

The board in Commons is charged at its net expense, and varies with the price of provisions. It is usually not more than $1,33 per week.

Students who board in Commons, are required to pay their board and room-rent at the commencement of each term.

There are connected with the Commons twelve buildings, with commodious rooms, which will accommodate 150 students. Each student, in Commons, is charged one dollar a term for the use of his room.

The rooms for the use of the English students are furnished with beds, chairs, tables, etc. Each student provides his own bedding.

Those for the Classical students are furnished with a bedstead, under-bed and table. A bed and bedding are usually brought from home. Other articles necessary to furnish a room can be obtained here, at small expense.

Declamations and Compositions during the whole course.

The instruction in this Department is confined to the Latin and Greek Classics, and such other studies as are requisite to prepare young men for college. Each teacher devotes his whole time to two classes, giving twice the usual amount of time to each recitation. This has been found of very great service to the student. Considering therefore the single object had in view, and the time afforded each teacher to enter into a full explanation of the difficulties and peculiarities of every lesson, it is believed that few institutions present equal advantages to young men wishing to prepare for college.

The course of study as marked out, embraces three years; and it is believed that this thorough course is best fitted to prepare the student for the most successful progress in his college studies.

While the regular course is three years, yet students are permitted to pursue their studies here as long as their time and circumstances will allow. And it is fully believed, if a student can spend but two years, it is decidedly better to pursue such a course as is here marked out, so far as that time will allow, than to pass superficially over a more extended course.

New classes are admitted to this department twice a year,—at the commencement of the Spring and Fall terms. Students, however, may enter at any time during the year, if they are prepared to join an existing class.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT.

The course of instruction in this Department is designed to impart a thorough knowledge of the common and higher branches of an English education.

Regular courses of lectures are given on Chemistry and Natural Philosophy; besides occasional lectures on Astronomy, Geology, and various other subjects, as the wants of particular classes require.

The higher classes have exercises in analyzing Milton, Young, and other poets, in connection with a course of familiar lectures on the principles of English Grammar. In these and other exercises of the English Department, special attention is given to those who are desirous of qualifying themselves to become teachers.

The Institution is provided with apparatus sufficient for illustrating very fully most of the important principles in Chemistry, Natural Philosophy and Astronomy. It has also an extensive cabinet of minerals, and a complete and valuable set of instruments for Practical Surveying and Civil Engineering. Surveying, Chemistry and Botany are studied during the Spring and Summer term.

The library contains about eight hundred volumes, and is open to all the members of this department.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Common Branches.—Greenleaf's Arithmetic, Wells's Grammar, Morse's Geography, History of the United States, General History, Northend's Book-Keeping, Reading, Orthography, Writing, Shurtleff's Governmental Instructor, etc.

Higher Branches.—Day's Algebra, Davies's Legendre, Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, Practical Surveying, Analytical Geometry, Mensuration; Hitchcock's Book-Keeping by Double Entry, Evidences of Christianity; Paley's Natural Theology, Smellie's Philosophy of Natural History, Cutter's Anatomy and Physiology, Gray's Chemistry; Mineralogy and Geology, Lincoln's Botany, Olmsted's Natural Philosophy, and Astronomy, Kendall's Uranography, Rhetoric, Logic, Upham's Mental Philosophy, Wayland's Moral Science.

Instruction in Sacred Music is given to all members of the school, who wish it, without additional charge.

TERMS, ETC.

There are three Academic terms during the year, viz. The first commencing four weeks after the first Wednesday of August. The second, three weeks after the Wednesday before the annual Thanksgiving of Massachusetts. The third, three weeks after the last Wednesday of March.

Students who wish to enter the Academy are required to furnish testimonials that they sustain a good moral character.

The members of the Academy are required to attend church regularly on the Sabbath at the chapel of the Theological Seminary, and also a Biblical exercise every Sabbath morning in the Academy.

A punctual attendance at every exercise is required of each student; and as the absence from a single recitation interferes with the student's progress, it is earnestly requested that parents would not consent that their sons should return home during term time.

In ordinary cases, students will not be admitted to the Academy, if they intend leaving before the close of the term.

At the close of every term, a report of the absences of each student will be made out and forwarded to his parents, when requested.

EXPENSES.

A fee of $5,00 is required of each student upon his entrance into the Classical Department.

Tuition for each term in the Classical Department is $6,00, which is remitted to indigent students who complete the full course preparatory for college. Students who wish to have their tuition remitted, are required to furnish to the Treasurer a certificate, signed by at least two responsible persons, that their circumstances are such as to render the aid necessary, and that they sustain a good moral character.

Tuition in the English Department is at the rate of 40 cents per week for the common branches, and 50 cents for the higher. In this Department, no entrance fee is required, and tuition is not remitted. No deduction will be made for occasional absence.

Tuition in both Departments is to be paid at the commencement of each term.

The expense of board in private families varies from $2,50 to $3,00 per week.

The board in Commons is charged at its net expense, and varies with the price of provisions. It will usually be from $1,25 to $1,37 per week.

Students who board in Commons, are required to pay their board and room-rent at the commencement of each term.

There are connected with the Commons twelve buildings, with commodious rooms, which will accommodate 150 students. Each student, in Commons, is charged one dollar a term for the use of his room.

The rooms for the use of the English students are furnished with beds, chairs, tables, etc. Each student provides his own bedding.

Those for the Classical students are furnished with a bedstead, under-bed and table. A bed and bedding are usually brought from home. Other articles necessary to furnish a room can be obtained here, at small expense.
